A gang of men is engaged removing the top soil from the low wet corner in front of the South Centre School building, preparatory to filling in the place with the debris from the Grammar School building. It will then be covered and the result should be a big improvement.

P. J. Dwane, formerly at Abbot Academy, is for the present acting as agent for a temporary and very handy portfolio or book binder. It is especially well adapted to the Boston Journal's Stoddard series and other books of that kind. He has already sold a large number and will be pleased to talk with anyone desiring such a thing.

The Whatsoever Missionary Society of the Free Church, composed of girls of the Sunday School, will hold its annual May festival and sale in the church vestry next Friday evening. The children will produce under the direction of Adam Lindsay a cantata entitled "The Happy Family," and if it as good as that given last year, those who attend may be assured of an enjoyable entertainment. Fancy articles, confectionery and other refreshments will be on sale. A small admission fee is charged at the door.

Tuesday evening's illustrated lecture at Phillips Academy on "The Parthenon" at Athens by Prof. Clifford H. Moore was heard with great interest by quite a large audience. Although he referred to Athens and the surrounding country and several buildings in the Acropolis, most of the time was given to a description of the Parthenon as it once stood, the mistress of Greece, and as it is to-day with its ruins. The views were excellent, as well as the lecture, and those who attended must indeed be grateful for such an instructive evening's entertainment.

The Andover Christian Endeavor Union omitted its regular quarterly meeting here and instead joined with the Lawrence Union in a meeting at Trinity Church, Tuesday night. About one hundred attended from this town and enjoyed an excellent address given by Rev. F. E. Clark of Boston, the founder of the Christian Endeavor movement. The essential and fundamental principles underlying this movement formed the principle topic of his very interesting remarks.

Ex-Gov. Berry of New Hampshire, who died at his home in Bristol last Friday in the 98th year of his age, is pleasantly remembered by many of our older residents. For his second wife he marrried Louisa Farley, who lived in the house which stood on the site of the Tucker residence on the Hill. He also resided here from April 1864 to Sept. 1878 in the Berry house on Salem Street. Ex-Gov. Berry received many public honors and was Governor of New Hampshire in 1861 and '62, when he was untiring in his efforts to suppress the Rebellion, organizing and equiping no less than 15,000 men. He was a man of sterling integrity and purity in both public and private life. He was quite active until April 17, when he took cold while out to walk and this settled on his lungs.

A Good Start.

The Village Improvement Society received a splendid start at the November Club House, last Monday night. Prof. Harris presided and after discussion of various articles, a constitution was adopted modelled after the famous Stockbridge society. Miss Emma J. Lincoln was chosen secretary, and a committee consisting of Rev. Frederic Palmer, Miss Lincoln and John N. Cole was appointed to nominate a list of officers. About thirty-five members were received and by the next meeting to be held at the same place next Monday evening, it is hoped there will be a hundred. The yearly fee is 50 cents and every man, woman and child in Andover ought to become members.

Society of Organized Charity.

The annual meeting of the Andover Society for Organized Charity will be held in the Parish House of Christ Church next Tuesday evening, May 8, at 8 o'clock. There will be a report of the Society's work for the past three months, an election of officers for the coming year, and an address by Mr. Robert A. Woods of the Andover House, Boston, on "The Social Problem of Andover."

All persons who are interested in hearing the results of the experiment conducted during the last three months, towards organizing the charities of the town, are cordially invited to be present and to become members of the Society.

Special Class in German.

Mr. Georg Fresé is forming a special class of five weeks' duration for the study of the German language. Particular attention is to be paid to German conversation and pure enunciation. The course of instruction will be based upon the natural conversational method. All interested are invited to meet Mr. Fresé next Monday evening, May 7, at Phillips Academy at 7.30, where he will explain and exemplify the work. Mr Fresé will recite a number of German selections and sing a few German "Valkrlieder."

Fire at Smith Hall, Abbot Academy.

An alarm of fire about ten minutes past twelve this morning summoned the whole local department to Smith Hall, Abbot Academy, where a brisk blaze was in progress at the rear end of the building. In about ten minutes after the alarm, the firemen were ready with two powerful streams of water, and by good management soon had the fire under control. Mr. Purr discovered the fire and gave the alarm. It evidently started in the oil room, which is in a ground apartment in the rear south-west corner. It worked up rapidly to the main building, into the walls of the kitchen and bedrooms directly above. The prompt and efficient work of the firemen subdued the flames before much was burned, but of course smoke and water did some further damage. Clothing and other valuables were removed from a few rooms in the rear, but the occupants of the building acted very calmly and there was no pandemonium or other ridiculous occurrences as were reported in some papers this morning.

It is estimated that the loss will be from $300 to $500 and the building is insured in the Merrimack Mutual Company and other companies through Agent J. A. Smart. Circumstances strongly point, in the view of the trustees, to the work of an incendiary.

Base Ball.

To-morrow afternoon the Thomson-Houston's of Lynn are scheduled to play on the Phillips campus.

For next week some of the most interesting games of the season are promised. Monday afternoon Brown, the acknowledged equal of any college team in the land, with Donovan and Millard of last year's Andover nine, will be here. On Wednesday Colby, which has proven itself a very strong aggregation, and on Saturday the Mass. Inst. Technology, which most always puts up good ball here.

The Phillips team without doubt played its best game thus far last Saturday, when Dartmouth was defeated by the handsome score of 7 to 1. Greenway was in the box for Andover and he was a complete puzzle to the New Hampshire batters, who made only four hits. But one error was made by the team and that was an excusable one by Simmons. On the other hand Dinsmore, who is supposed to be Dartmouth's leading pitcher, was touched up for 10 hits including a three-bagger. Dartmouth had several good chances to score, having two men on bases with one out, and only the fine pitching of Greenway prevented it. It was a pretty game and showed that Andover can put up a good article of ball.

Wednesday's game in which Phillips was defeated 6 to 5 by Boston University was certainly exciting, first one and then the other having the lead, Andover being finally beaten in the ninth, when with two out and two men on bases, Messer of the visiting team cracked out a single bringing in two runs. Drew, Andover's catcher, was not in form, a muffled third strike and passed ball being responsible for two runs. Bement on third base was wofully slow and lost several chances for put outs although fielding cleanly. Paige's pitching was effective at times, but he seemed to play in hard luck. Andover found the Boston pitcher Walkley very hard to hit.

As a tree flourishes in proportion to the richness of the soil, so the human body thrives in accordance with the quality of its blood. Hence the necessity of keeping the vital fluid rich and pure with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the best blood medicine you can find.

Card.

The family of the late Edwin H. Barnard desire us to express for them their sincere gratitude and thanks for the many kindnesses shown by neighbors and friends.

It is only of late years that rheumatism has been treated as a blood disease. But that this is a correct theory is proved by the extraordinary success attending the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in this painful and very prevalent malady. It seldom fails of radical cure.

Dr. Donald's Political Talk.

The Boston Transcript speaks as follows on Dr. E. Winchester Donald's recent political talk:

How the Familiar Talk of the rector of Trinity to the young men of the Trinity Club on political parties got into the newspapers can best be explained on the ground that a great deal gets into the newspapers nowadays that does not belong there. But Dr. Donald's statement there of his conception of the citizen's duty to party principles having got into the papers, it had better go in straight and in the proper connection. According to the fullest report Dr. Donald said at the beginning:

"On one occasion in New York I voted for a man who was most disreputable, a wretched citizen and an unworthy candidate, in opposition to a man who was in every way worthy, a good Christian and a firm believer in a cause which I had at that time very much to heart, high license. And I should do the same thing again, and believe I was not only justified, but it was obligatory upon me to do so. Why, I will tell you later."

Then he went into a running review of the political history of the country since the adoption of the constitution, illustrating his point that the country must have two parties; that each of these parties stood for a great principle of government, one for strict construction and the other for loose construction of the constitution and that every man should belong to one or the other from conviction. Parties live by principles and not by enthusiasm for men, and thus ever since their formation the two parties in the United States have, in the main, kept steadfastly to their respective principles.

"Democrats have sometimes done undemocratic things, and Republicans have sometimes been unrepublican, but take it all in all they have both been faithful, and in the history of the political parties in the United States, with the names of Hamilton and Lincoln must remain that of Webster. Webster stood on the foundation laid by Hamilton, and forged, with patient labor and almost infinite prescience, the weapons used by Lincoln to preserve and defend the Union. Lincoln is to my mind the most magnificent specimen of the federalist who ever lived.

So, gentlemen, we come now to my justification for voting for the scalawag against the man of unblemished character. I did it because the scalawag was to sit in the New York Legislature and vote for a man of my party for United States senator—a man who believed in the same interpretation of the constitution in which I believed."

It is a question too largely personal and temperamental to be determined on ethical grounds for all voters, but most conscientious men of pronounced party views placed in Mr. Donald's position of having to choose either "one of the greatest rascals" of his own political persuasion, or "one of the best men he ever knew" from whose views he differed, would have refrained from voting altogether. Mr. Donald would undoubtedly urge such a course to be cowardly and moreover, having thoroughly made up his mind that such was the wisest course, he might feel that it would be equally cowardly not to announce his convictions. But the dose hardest to swallow is not always the best medicine. And do not a certain very notorious secret order of semi-political religionists defend the most monstrous practices on the plea of doing evil that good may come; or to keep to politics only, do we commend as the highest model of citizenship the voter who vows he would vote against the Angel Gabriel if his name were on the Democratic ticket?

Nature Work in Schools.

Our citizens sometimes question the importance of the nature work being done by our school children, but that other cities and towns fully endorse such methods is shown in the following abstract from the school report of Somerville:

"Natural science, concerned largely with the earth and the tiny things it supports, affords the earliest school only dried means of introducing the child to his earthly habitation. The life, health and happiness of the individual is dependent upon his knowledge of the things about him, and upon the understanding that he has of their relation to each other and to himself. This knowledge and apprehension of relations can only be acquired by actual personal contact and experience with the things and forces which make up and govern the universe.

"The final motive for the study of science is to bring the pupil by degrees to a strong personal realization that he is the focus of innumerable forces about him, which so bear upon him and so limit his life and comfort as to render the knowledge of how they may be resisted, guided, and controlled an absolute necessity. Life, ultimately, his own life, is the great centre of all his interest in the world. And this motive will co-ordinate his interest in nature exactly with his interest in his own existence. This will give him life in the broadest and best sense, which is the ultimate aim of all education. Thus science instruction takes its place in the common schools with a motive at once pure and beneficial, and with an irresistible appeal to all to become life-long students. All phenomena of earth and air are pregnant with deepest interest when one finds himself threatened through his ignorance and his inability to interpret them."

The vital importance to man of a thorough knowledge and understanding of the elements of science and the phenomena and forces of nature has been forcibly and beautifully pictured by Professor Huxley, thus: "Suppose it were perfectly certain that the life and fortune of every one of us would one day or other depend upon our winning or losing a game of chess. Don't you think that we should all consider it a primary duty to learn, at least, the names and moves of the pieces; to have a notion of a gambit, and a keen eye for all the means of giving and getting out of check? Do you not think that we should look with disapprobation, amounting to scorn, upon a father who allowed his son, or the state which allowed its members, to grow up without knowing a pawn from a knight? Yet it is a very plain and elementary truth that the life, fortune, and the happiness of every one of us do depend upon our knowing something of the rules of a game infinitely more difficult and complicated than chess. It is a game which has been told for untold ages, every man and every woman of us being one of the two players in a game of his or her own. The chessboard is the world, the pieces are the phenomena of the universe, the rules of the game are what we call the laws of nature. The player on the other side is hidden from us. We know that this play is always fair, just, and patient. But, also, we know to our cost that he never overlooks a mistake or makes the smallest allowance for ignorance. To the man who plays well the highest stakes are paid, with that sort of overflowing generosity with which the strong shows delight in strength; and one who plays ill is checkmated, without haste, but without remorse. My metaphor will remind some of you of the famous picture in which Retzsch has depicted Satan playing chess with a man for his soul. Substitute for the mocking fiend in that picture a calm, strong angel, who is playing for love, as we say, and would rather lose than win, and I should accept it as an image of human life."

"I know it. That's jes' what the matter is. I'm an infant prodigy, an I've got ter wait fur me second childhood before I kin resume business."—Washington Star.

An Editor Nearly 50 Years

Says Hood's Sarsaparilla is a Sterling and Valuable Remedy.

Mr. E. A. Norris
Fitchburg, Mass.

A man who has had nearly half a century of experience in newspaper life is certainly capable of judging between the valuable and the worthless. Hence we highly value the following statement from Mr. Erasmus A. Norris of Fitchburg, for nearly 50 years editor of Massachusetts and New Hampshire newspapers:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen: In 1887, after a sickness of two years, I was given up by our best physicians, who considered my case hopeless, my age, 66, being against me. But by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was able to get about and do a little light work. It seems almost a miracle, in my case, that after using Hood's Sarsaparilla in the fall, on the first day of January I engaged for the city of Fitchburg to take the record of the births. I accomplished this with comparative ease, being out in the

of winter, working each day, and have been able to do a fair day's work every day since. Several members of my family have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, and always with marked benefit. Hood's Sarsaparilla is as staple as flour in our house, and its presence almost as indispensable. I find that nearly every medicine deteriorates, but Hood's keeps up the quality all these years that I have known it. It is certainly a sterling and invaluable remedy. I can hardly imagine what I should have done without it." ERASMUS A. NORRIS, No. 7 Lincoln St. Fitchburg, Mass. Get HOOD'S.

THE CROP OUTLOOK.

Synopsis of the Weather Crop Bulletin Ending With April.

BOSTON, May 1.—The New England weather-crop bulletin for the week ending April 30, 1894, with a general summary of the weather for the winter 1893-4, reads as follows:

The weather for the past winter in New England has been generally favorable for grass and winter grains, and for fruits, except peaches.

The fall was pleasant and open and much work was completed, and the ground put into good shape for the winter. December (1893) as a month was cold, though the last half was warmer than usual, and the 25th was one of the warmest Christmas days for a number of years. The 14th was an extremely cold day; but through all the coldest weather the ground was well covered with snow throughout New England and comparatively little damage was done. The precipitation was slightly in excess, except in western districts.

April has been generally very favorable for farm work and growth of crops, and the end of the month finds the season fully two weeks ahead of the average. Grass is universally reported in fine shape, except where the drought of last year makes a thin stand now. The latter part of the month was mostly dry, with only one-fourth to one-half inch in the past week; the general report is that the top of the ground is getting quite dry and that rain would advance vegetation very much.

In northern New Hampshire and Vermont the conditions are much the same as in Maine, except on the shores of Lake Champlain, where the season is more advanced. In the southern counties grain has been mostly sown and some potatoes and gardens planted. Grass looks especially well, and in a few pastures cattle are getting their entire living.

In the southern part of Rhode Island and Connecticut fruit buds are in blossom, grain is mostly sown, asparagus is in market and potatoes are reported as half planted. The peaches generally show a very poor blossom.

RIOTS IN CLEVELAND.

Unemployed Men Create Further Disorder and Get the Worst of It.

CLEVELAND, May 3.—The disorders which began with the May Day demonstrations of the unemployed culminated yesterday in open riot. There were three separate and bloody conflicts between the police and the rioters, and troops are under arms ready to respond to a call in case of emergency. The worst is believed to be over, however.

The trouble began when a mob of about 2000 started to raid the factories in the flats and drive from work the men employed therein. The first attack was made at the Variete iron works. The windows of the factory were smashed with stones and bricks and the workmen fled in a panic.

The rioters proceeded to the Upsilon bolt works, where 1600 men were induced to quit work before the officers arrived.

When the police came upon the scene the men made a stand, and hurled bricks and stones at the officers. Orders were given to charge them with clubs. The rioters ran like sheep at the first assault, but the leaders succeeded in rallying them upon the Abbey street viaduct, a bridge about 1000 feet long.

Squads of police coming up at both ends of the bridge penned in the crowd, and they were forced to fight their way out. They made a rush for the officers, but at least a score of them were clubbed unmercifully before they finally succeeded in getting away. During this conflict two anarchists were arrested, after a terrific struggle on their part.

In the south end of the city at the same time a mob of 500 drove the workmen away from the United States salt works and were about to make another little raid. They were met by Police Director Herbert and 10 policemen, who clubbed them until they were glad to run. At least 30 men were injured in this melee, but the mob was dispersed.

Missing From Hinsdale.

HINSDALE, Mass., May 3.—This town is stirred up over the supposed elopement of Maud Raymond, aged 17, and Charles Dwyer. The girl is pretty and vivacious. Dwyer is 23, and works in Hinsdale Bros.' mills. The couple, it is alleged, have met clandestinely for some time. Tuesday evening they went to Allen Pye's stable and engaged a team with a driver, since which time neither has been seen. It is supposed they drove to New York state, and the girl's father, with Livermore Pye, is looking for them.

Crooked Politics Alleged.

PROVIDENCE, May 2.—Wheaton Cole, a member of the house of representatives, will be unseated next Friday. The charge against him is that of using illegal methods in securing his election. The house committee on investigation of the special Pawtucket assembly election of 1893 not only made this decision against Cole, but also censured the warden, clerk and Republican supervisors of the second ward for permitting an evasion of the secret ballot law.

Big Blaze at Amesbury.

AMESBURY, Mass., May 3.—Fire started at 3 o'clock this morning in the four-story brick block occupied by Francis N. Smith & Co. as a carriage manufactory, and rapidly spread to adjoining tenement houses. Assistance was summoned from Newburyport. No estimate of the loss can yet be formed. One tenement house and the large factory were burned to the ground, and other tenements were badly damaged.

Forty Years In One Pulpit.

PROVIDENCE, April 30. — Rev. Daniel Henshaw, D. D., celebrated his 40th anniversary as rector of All Saints' Episcopal church yesterday. The celebration of the anniversary will be continued Tuesday, when a special service and a reception will be held.

All About a Fence.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., May 3.—The Consolidated road is at war with the town authorities over a fence built by the railroad which the town claims is on its land. The fence closes up part of the highway. A suit against the road will be instituted.

Johnson Will Try It.

WALTHAM, Mass., May 3.—Cyclist J. S. Johnson will accept the offer made by the manager of the Waltham track, who offers $1000 for any rider to make a record for his track of two minutes or less.

No Druggists' Licenses.

FITCHBURG, Mass., May 2.—The aldermen have refused to grant any sixth class licenses to druggists. There were 17 applicants. Fitchburg will be exceedingly dry this summer.

PRACTICAL FERTILIZERS.

Restoring Wornout Acres by the Application of Mineral Constituents.

About 10 years ago Julius Hensel of Germany, a physiological chemist of great reputation, first promulgated the idea that the reason so many farms at the present day produce smaller and more inferior crops than in times past despite a lavish use of stable manure and other fertilizers is due to the fact that the mineral constituents of the fields has been slowly but surely taken out of the soil, and that while stable manure, superphosphates, etc., furnish an abundance of nitrogenous elements to the plants they are woefully deficient in the mineral food so necessary to the growing of healthy and abundant crops.

He maintained that the very thing which the farmers are so anxious to remove from their fields, the rocks and stones, if put back in assimilable form—i. e., in a finely pulverized state—will be of immense benefit to the soil, and that their persistent application in that form will restore seemingly wornout acres to their former natural fertility. In order to test the truth of his idea he analyzed the ashes of wheat, rye, corn, potatoes, clover, grasses, etc., and from these he ascertained the mineral constituents of the grains, etc., and by supplying these to the soil found that his claims were abundantly confirmed by large and healthy crops.

He maintains that the soil of the valleys and plains, which are most fertile, were formed primarily of disintegrated rocks washed down through ages from the mountains. Vegetation ensued, and after its decay becoming mixed with the infinitesimally small particles of rocks furnished the ideal plant food.

His views, promulgated with all the power of earnest conviction, soon aroused the interest of some intelligent and progressive farmers. Experiments were made with most surprising and satisfactory results. An enterprising man was induced to engage in the manufacture of these fertilizers in a small way, and the results have been simply astonishing.

This discovery has most decidedly passed the experimental stage, and it behooves the farmers of the eastern part of this country to investigate this most important discovery, which may point the way to counteract the cheaply raised grain on the low priced lands of the west. It is claimed by the best authority that by means of this discovery they can not only increase the quality of their grain and other crops, but the yield also, and in many cases threefold at a small cost.

Experience has demonstrated that the annual application of from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds of the proper fertilizer per acre is as much as is necessary, and the effects will become more and more manifest from year to year.

A New Division.

Secretary Morton has created a new division in the weather bureau to be known as the division of agricultural soils. Professor Milton Whitney has been appointed chief of the new division. The purpose of the new division is to pursue investigations of an analogous character, carrying the climatic observations of the weather bureau into the soil, where the moisture effects its work and makes its influence felt upon the plant life. The secretary's order briefly defines the work as follows:

"It shall be the duty of this division to study the climatic conditions of heat and moisture under the surface of the ground and the relation of these conditions to crop distribution."

It is expected that the work of the division will result in acquiring a great deal of information of value to farmers on the character of soils in relation to the distribution of moisture to plants. The solution of the problems involved will serve to determine the adaptability of certain kinds of soil to certain crops by which the value of land may be greatly increased.

The Canning Industry.

A recent government report shows a fact that will be interesting as well as new to Minnesotans. It is that the season of [illegible]3 was the first in which Minnesota and Wisconsin were considered as a factor in the tomato canning industry of the United States. Out of a total pack in 1893 of 4,300,483 cases—of two dozen cans—2,000 cases were canned in Minnesota and 3,250 in Wisconsin. Iowa canned 82,719 cases, and Maryland, which heads the list, packed 1,417,626 cases. New Jersey follows with 977,242 cases, California with 451,547, Indiana with 347,260, and little Delaware has a credit of 271,277 cases. The increase in the pack of tomatoes over 1892 was 33 per cent, extending generally all over the United States.

Fungicides and Insecticides.

Professor Maynard of the Massachusetts hatch station says that "bordeaux mixture and ammoniacal carbonate of copper as fungicides and paris green as an insecticide have given the most satisfactory results. Plum knot was largely prevented by pruning and application of kerosene and bordeaux mixture. Bordeaux mixture also gave satisfactory results for carnation rust."

Fire Horses and Road Horses.

When the first pair of horses was purchased for the town of Andover, the primary reason for such purchase was to better equip our fire department. As the years have gone by other horses have been added, until to-day the town owns six horses. We have carefully followed the manipulation of the horses, in their use on roads and for fire department, during the years since they were first acquired, and each succeeding year they have been of less and less value to the fire department, for which they were originally created. So far has this gone, that on Wednesday when we had two wood fires, it was necessary to hire a pair of horses at each alarm because our own town horses were so far away. This is not right; the value of the apparatus is in the promptness with which it reaches the fire, and no better illustration of how efficient it can be could be given than the excellent work done at the Abbot Academy fire last night when everything was in place for good work. There should be a pair of horses within two minutes of the town house at all hours, and it would seem as if there was some way in which such a state of affairs might be secured. Why not let the town take this four or five hundred dollars raised for street sprinkling each year, and employ a team at that? Certainly something must be done to make our horses of more value to the department for which they were originally intended. This intention has never been changed by any action of our citizens, and we believe that the fire engineers to-day have the power to put a pair of horses into the stalls of the engine house and keep them there for fire uses only, if they so desire. There is need of a change here.

Editorial Cinders.

We don't know just what can be done to add a new study to the course at Phillips Academy, but certainly something is needed to make a certain element, now seemingly prominent among the students better acquainted with the rights of citizens and the demands of local government.

Various charges, some of them proven, show that in this large number of boys there is a lawless element that needs disciplining, and the fire of last night is another charge added to this list, whether justly or not we do not know. The faculty ought to be more desirous, and probably are, than any one else to see the offender punished, but the thing is to first "catch your rabbit." Let a few of the P.A. rabbits be caught, and when they are "caught" let the skinning be clear to the tip of the tail. And so the course we would propose is "rabbit skinning," and we hereby nominate Judge Poor as chief instructor, with the hope that a few ripe specimens may be attended to at once.

A piece of "newspaper work" purporting to be an account of the fire at Abbot Academy is seen in a Lawrence contemporary this morning that is a disgrace to whoever wrote it and the paper that published it. So desirous was the writer to put sensationalism first and fact afterward, there is hardly a true statement in the article. We cannot believe that any Andover writer could have so far forgotten the demands of decency and truth as to have concocted this mess; we prefer to lay it to the influence of the city where it was published, of which nothing better could hardly be expected.

Good for the firemen! That was prompt and efficient work at the Abbot Academy fire last night, and they deserve all the praise they are getting for what they did.

Boys and girls! There seems to be a cinder for you every week nowadays. The one this week is covered with tar, but will not burn if you will only keep the matches away from it. Likewise the concrete walks which are covered with tar won't wear out if you'll keep your heels out of them. We don't believe the boys and girls who have taken so much delight in boring holes in our nice walks, thought how much damage they were doing; don't do it again for we want to make Andover a beautiful town.

People are generous, some because [illegible] is, but for whatever reason, people are generous sometimes. There are heaps of illustrations of the above truths in the sprinkling subscription.

In our last week's issue we made an error in stating the amount at which the Elm House property would be turned into the hands of a syndicate. It should have been stated at $12,000.

No trouble to "eat a peck of dirt" in one day if one had much business on Main Street last Tuesday or Wednesday.

Next Meeting of Village Improvement Society.

There will be a meeting of the Andover Village Improvement Society at the November Club House, next Monday evening, May 7, at 7.30 o'clock. The report of the committee appointed last week will be presented, and officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

All persons interested are urgently invited to be present; to hear what plans have been made for the improvement of the appearance of the town, to become members of the Society, and to give their suggestions and assistance.

Andover Grange Arbor Day.

Andover Grange No. 183 celebrated Arbor Day by planting two beautiful maple trees in front of the lot lately purchased by them, on which, at some future day they intend building a hall, which will be better adapted to their needs than the present one.

The gentlemen all seemed to be in favor of women's rights for they permitted the ladies to assist in shovelling the dirt upon the trees. The ladies were equal to the occasion showing their skill in that direction by a vigorous use of the shovel. The exercises consisted of singing by the grange choir, reading of Whittier's poem, "The Sycamores," by Mrs. Charles Hardy, which was very appropriate to the occasion, singing by a quartette. The ceremony closed by all present joining in singing "America."

Children Save Your Money.

An opportunity will be given at once. An office will be opened in the Selectmen's Room May 9 from 3 30 to 5.30 P.M., under the direction of the Society of Organized Charity. This office will be a branch of the Stamp Saving Society of Boston

Each person who deposits one cent or more will receive a Stamp Deposit Card, and a stamp, representing the amount deposited. The scheme will be explained at length in the schools. The purpose is such as to commend itself to parents and teachers. The plan has been tried and is working in many places with excellent results.

This is a part of the education of the child which merits our hearty approval and encouragement.

W. A. BALDWIN.

Bush Fire Wednesday.

It is fortunate that no building was burning, when the alarm was given about 11 o'clock Wednesday, forenoon for a brush fire in Frye Village, for it would have burned down before the local department could have responded. The machines stood in the road several minutes before there was a sign of a horse, the same old story. The fire was burning over a large tract of woods and land back and beyond the Frye farm. No particular damage was being done, but it was feared that if left without any restraint, some buildings in the neighborhood might be endangered. It is said to have been burning several days. A second alarm was given about 2.30 in the afternoon, the fire having started again in the same vicinity, but in the woods on the Main Street. It was a more vicious blaze than that of the morning and required much hard work, before it was under control and danger to the houses removed.

To the Fire Company.

The very hearty thanks of the Faculty and Trustees of Abbot Academy are hereby extended to the Andover firemen for their prompt and efficient handling of the fire at Smith Hall on Thursday night.

The Phillips Glee Club rendered selections after the speaking, while the decisions were being made by the judges, who were Rev. Charles F. Carter B.A., Burton S. Gilman B.A, and Charles E. McKinley B.A. The prizes were awarded first to O. M. Clark, second to W. M. Gardner and third to L. H. Rogers.

Quarterly Meeting and Social.

There was a quarterly business meeting and social of the Free Church Y. P. S. C. E. Monday night in the vestry, which was well attended and a very pleasant affair. Business occupied the first part of the evening, reports of the different committees being read and the following officers elected: President, C. B. Baldwin; vice-President, Joshua Paine; secretary, Robert Lindsay; treasurer, James Brown; also the following committee: prayer meeting, C. B. Baldwin, John Howell, Clara Baldwin; Lookout, Martha Goff, Agnes Rose, Annie Buchan; Social, J. Newton Cole, Mabel Ashness, Carrie Mander, Wm. Lunan, J. P. Roberts; visiting and Sunday School, Sarah Kent, Annie Lindsay, Annabel Richardson; Literature and Missionary, Fred B. Goff, Gertie Roberts, A. B. Saunders; Flower, Helen Ritchie, Lizzie Soutar, Alex Dick, Mrs. Wilson, George May; pianists, Clara Baldwin, Gertie Roberts.

Following the business there was an impromptu but very enjoyable entertainment, consisting of a piano solo by Miss Gertie Roberts, songs by Mr. Donaldson of the Seminary and Miss Alice Bond of Boston, violin solos by Wm. Scott and readings by Mr. Atwater of the Emerson School of Oratory, Boston. The latter young gentleman, who will complete his course of study this spring, should make a great success as a reader, if we may judge from his work on this occasion as well as at the recent Cricket Club concert. He pleased everybody and will always receive a warm welcome here. Miss Bond also made a most favorable impression in her songs, and the other performers were equally successful. Ice cream and cake were served after the entertainment.

A Credit to Phillips Academy.

The Phillips Andover Mirror has just celebrated its second birthday, in as tasteful and interesting an anniversary number as we have ever seen. The editors of this enterprising publication have introduced several innovations, the most notable being the insertion of some exceedingly artistic cuts.

The literary menu is unusually large, and in our judgment stands for the best ability yet shown in the magazine. As usual, the alumni article is a feature. Herbert D. Ward, so well known to our townspeople, contributes the one this month. "At the Point of the Sword" is the title, and the story is a stirring one of the war, finely painted by Mr. Ward's strong hand. A short article entitled "Historic Andover" presents a number of entertaining glimpses of the very early history of our town, which should be of particular interest to the citizens of Andover. It shows the foundation upon which the town was built, and some of the quaint by-laws and regulations of the first town government provoke a smile to us of these days. The short stories are above the average. A well compiled life sketch of Louis Kossuth shows many of the prominent characteristics of that great patriot. As for the editorials, they are pertinent and well written. Under the head of "Mirage" we find humorous verse and amusing sketches. An exhaustive book review of the popular novel, "Ships that pass in the Night," appears under the head of "Books."

The Andover Press has had charge of the mechanical part of the work, as usual. The printing and general arrangement of press matter is tasteful and beyond criticism in every feature. The gilt letters and blue ink of the cover make a very tasteful and handsome appearance.

We find nothing for which the editors need apologize, and we doubt if there is another preparatory school literary monthly with anything approaching the merit of this periodical. The last issue of the Mirror is undoubtedly the best that has ever been compiled, and it is in every way a model number. The present Board is composed of W. M. Gardner, Samuel L. Fuller, Donald Gordon, and Arthur C. Mack.

Our Waterworks.

In response to a communication published below, Supt. Smith of the Waterworks has prepared for our readers in a condensed form some interesting figures showing the cost of our Waterworks to date, income, expenses, etc. of each year. It is a good showing and proves that even though the burden has never yet been heavy it will still grow lighter each year in the future.

To the Editor of the Townsman:

Will it be possible to secure for your readers a plain statement as to the cost to date of our waterworks, the amount of outstanding debts, the annual interest [illegible] the cost of [illegible] and [illegible] the amount of income from water takers last year, together with the prospects of the year current, and of succeeding years,—in short a tax-payer's history of the waterworks to date, and a satisfying glance at the future. We read the figures and reports of the town as submitted at the town meeting, but we cannot interpret them, as they are necessarily brief, and few of us are able to carry the items along for a series of years in our minds. The notes and expenditures cover a considerable period. If we can find out just where we are in our water supply, we can judge better how and when to get at the next great question, viz. a system of sewers.

ARGAND.

The tax payer has felt the burden of waterworks to the following extent:

1890.	Maintenance of works,	$2999.99
	Interest,	4501.34
		$7501.33
	Less receipts water rates,	3106.38	$4394.95
1891.	Maintenance,	$297.14
	Interest,	6075.00
	Service pipe,	3000.00
		12372.14
	Less water rates,	5349.32		7022.82
	Sinking fund,	150.00
1892.	Maintenance,	3491.22
	Interest,	6086.94
	New boiler,	2093.21
	Bond payments,	4417.24
		16238.61
	Less water rates,	5977.41		10261.20
1893.	Maintenance,	3792.56
	Interest,	6340.00
	Bond payments,	5000.00
	Sinking fund,	300.00
		15432.56
	Less water rates,	7647.95		7784.61
Total direct tax for 4 years,				$29463.58

Bond and construction payments during this term amount to $25877.45, Sinking funds have a value of $2198.21, cash in town treasurer's hands available for construction $2063.46, so the town has invested in Waterworks $30139.12 out of a tax levy of $29463.58 and has received 4 years use of water valued at $5560 per year. This is saying nothing of the indirect benefits derived from lower insurance rates, which will amount to about 20 per cent of the premiums on insurance policies; in other words if a tax payer is paying $5 per year insurance with the water protecting his property, he would have to pay $6 without such protection.

The tax payer must not be deceived however, by the small amount which has been required to meet interest and bond payments as the accrued interest on the first series of bonds amounted to $1600, and was used for payment on interest account. Premium on same series $10,515, which met bond payments for the first two years and left a small balance toward the third year. This of course lowers the average direct tax considerably; the squarest way to look at the matter is from last year's work, which would be as follows:

Expenses of maintenance,
Interest and Bond Payments,	$15432.56
Less water rates,	7647.95
	$7784.61
Less Bond Payments,	5000.00
Cost to town for water,	$2784.61
Value of water furnished,	$5560.00

Summary of finances Andover Waterworks, Jan. 10, 1894.

Cost to date,	$182877.45
Outstanding bonds,	157,000.00
Interest on same per year,	6280.00
Cost of maintenance 1893,	3792.56
Income from water rates, 1893,	7647.95
Estimated income, 1894,	8000.00

A fair valuation of water furnished for public use would be:

Memorial Hall,	$15.00	5 schoolhouses,	$200.00
Town House,	10.00	6 Drink'g fonts,	400.00
Town Farm,	40.00	St. sprinkling,	400.00
Town Stables,	15.00	178 hydrants,	4450.00
2 Engine houses,	30.00
Total value water for public use,			$5560.00

A glance at these prices will show that they are much lower than a private company would furnish the same service for.

Bonds have been issued for payment of construction to the amount of $177,000, as follows:

Series 1. $150,000 payable $5,000 each year. Of these $20,000 have been paid.

Series 2. $10,000 payable A.D. 1920, for which a sinking fund is established requiring $150 per year.

Series 3. $10,000 payable A. D. 1922. Sinking fund $150 per year.

Series 4. $7,000 payable A. D. 1923. There still remain in hands of town treasurer, $3,000 of this series which may be issued at any time needed. Sinking fund for series will require $150 per year.

These figures do not in any way refer to the system of fire supply which was put in previous to the construction of the general system at an expense of about $10,000, and would make a showing of that amount on both sides of the account, that is cost to date would show $192,877.45. Direct tax, $39,613.58, amount invested by town, $40,339.12.

Obituary.

Last Saturday one of Andover's old and well known business men passed away. We refer to Edwin H. Barnard who died at his home, on Central Street, after a long and severe illness. Mr. Barnard was born in Andover 69 years ago being a son of Hermon and Elizabeth Barnard of West Parish. A painter by trade, he carried on that business successfully for many years on Essex Street, ill health compelling him to sell out to Daniel Donovan & Son about a year ago, when he was attacked with the grippe, and when barely recovered, had a relapse during last autumn.

Notwithstanding his busy life he found time to do his part in town and church affairs, and his wise counsels will be greatly missed in the community of which he was a member. He was a member of the South Church and of St. Matthews Lodge of Masons. Besides a widow, he leaves one daughter Mrs. Milton Chickering and two sons, Lawrence of Boston and Charles B. who lives at home. Funeral services were conducted at the house Tuesday afternoon by Rev. F. R. Shipman of the South Church and the remains were taken to the West Parish cemetery for burial. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Flint, A. S. Manning, J. E. Whiting, and Lewis T. Hardy, being a delegation from the Masonic Lodge.

The floral tributes were very beautiful. These included an exquisite design from George H. Gilbert, Esq., of Winchester, one from the Masonic lodge, and a pillow of pinks and roses on which was inscribed "Grandfather."

Mary J. (Abbott) Greenough, widow of Eben Greenough, died last Saturday at the home of Miss Charlotte Abbott on Punchard Avenue. Deceased was 73 years old and a native of this town, being a daughter of Henry and Judith Abbott. She had been ill for about two years. She was a highly respected woman and had a large circle of friends. The remains were removed to Groveland Tuesday, where services were held and interment took place.

May Day.

The hard times made a change in the numbers and grade of attendance at the May breakfast in Lawrence. Entrance and exit at different doors relieved the "congestion" of 1893 which so many resolved never to undergo again for any cause, however good. Indian Ridge with columbine and strawberry bloom called us away early, but there was time to count thirty-six huge bean pots, to admire the caps of the Needham W. R. C., to secure the usual bunch of arbutus that has suffered this dry spring, and to note the very low prices of all articles of needle-work. In fact, the prices of standard goods at the shops and the celerity with which heads of firms like Stearns and Truell's gave small matters a personal attention show how earnestly and cheerfully old democratic Lawrence is making the best of it; but the Hospital fund, as well as the life-saving marine service, will have to shrink this year to fit the pockets of both capitalist and laborer—pockets which are being picked in so gentlemanly a fashion by our chosen statesmen.

A plague of little flies on the Haverhill line and dust that crawled, on our Andover line, were drawbacks to the full enjoyment of the welcome open car. But the women who went out hilarious to the border line on the noon cars and the steady streams of thirsty men and small boys, gorging the doorways of the new saloons at either end of Essex Street, index the perennial vigor of that mischievous little fungus of ferment that has been marshalled into the service of evil.

A supper under the auspices of the Y. L. P. U. was held in the church vestry Wednesday evening. The gentlemen chose partners by lot, and after supper each lady was weighed. Her partner was obliged to guess her weight and to pay one cent per pound for any differences between his estimate and the actual weight.

The Y.L.P.U. gave a farewell supper to Robert Ewing last night. All the members were present and enjoyed a regular old-time Y. L. P. U. jollification. Refreshments were served and the party broke up at a late hour. Mr. Ewing goes to Wallingford, Conn., and has the best wishes for his success, not only from the members of the club but from the townspeople in general.

The board of engineers have appointed the following to be members of the new hose company which succeeds the steamer company: Allan Simpson, John Haggerty, Carl Hoffman, H. S. Neale, J. H. Clinton, John Fallows, Edward Dailey, John Riley, Henry Platt and Isaac Johnson. They also appointed Allan Simpson, foreman, and John Haggerty, assistant foreman. The other officers are to be elected by the company.

Brush fires kept the boys busy. They were called Friday evening to a lively one on the land of H. A. Hayward near Spring Grove, and were again called to the same place twice on Saturday. The last time it required much effort to keep the flames from spreading into the high woods. These were evidently incendiary. Monday noon there was another blaze on the land of James Coutts and Lawrence Bird which endangered their buildings, but by hard work they were saved.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE

—OF—

Real Estate in Andover.

By virtue of a license to me granted by the Probate Court for the County of Essex on the second day of April A.D. 1894, I shall sell by public auction on the lot of land first hereinafter described on Saturday, the nineteenth day of May, 1894, at 4 o'clock in afternoon, all the real estate of Herbert A. Woodbridge, late of Andover in said County, deceased, to wit:

1. An undivided half of the lot of land containing about half an acre, with the cider mill and other buildings thereon, situated in said Andover on the southerly side of Salem Street, bounded northeasterly by said street, southeasterly by land of Michael Feeney, southwesterly by land of said Feeney, and northwesterly by land of John McCarthy.

2. Also one undivided fifth part of a tract of land containing fourteen acres, more or less, situated partly in Andover and partly in North Andover on the easterly side of the road leading from the old Tucker farm in Andover to the house of William Stiles in North Andover, and bounded beginning at the southwesterly corner on said road at land of W. H. Tucker, thence running easterly by said Tucker land and the wall to a stake at a ditch, thence northerly by said ditch and land of said Tucker and others to a stake, thence westerly or northwesterly by the ditch and wall to said road, thence southerly or southwesterly by the road to the point of beginning.

3. Also one undivided fifth part of a lot of land in Andover, with buildings thereon, containing five acres, more or less, situate on the westerly side of the Boston and Haverhill road, and bounded beginning at the northwesterly corner of the premises at land of J. P. Butterfield, thence running westerly by said Butterfield land about forty-five rods to land of one Harnden, thence southerly by said Harnden land about eighteen rods to a stake, thence easterly on a line parallel to said first line forty-five rods to a stake at said road, thence by said road northerly about eighteen rods to the point of beginning.

4. Also one undivided fifth part of a lot of land in said Andover on the old road from Boston to Haverhill, containing about two and a half acres bounded beginning on said road at a stake at the southwesterly corner of the premises and thence running northerly by said road about twenty-eight rods and twenty links to a stake, thence easterly about fourteen and a half rods to an old cart-way, thence southerly and westerly by said cart-way to the point of beginning.

5. Also one undivided fifth part of a certain lot of land containing thirteen acres, more or less, with an old mill building thereon situated in said Andover on the westerly side of the old Boston and Haverhill road bounded beginning on said road at a stake by the third lot above described, thence running on said road southerly to land of J. P. Butterfield, thence southerly and westerly by said Butterfield land to land of W. S. Jenkins, thence northwesterly and northerly by said Jenkins land and land of one Gould to a stake by the third lot above described, thence easterly on said third lot above named to the stake at the road, the point of beginning.

6. Also an undivided fifth part of a lot of land containing about three acres situate in North Andover on the easterly side of the road leading from the old Tucker place to the house of Wm. Stiles, and bounded northerly and easterly by land of Tucker, southerly by the second lot above named, and westerly by said road.

7. Also one undivided fifth part of another lot of land containing about one acre situate in said Andover, bounded by said road leading from the old Tucker place, by another road leading therefrom and by a pasture of the Tucker estate.

8. Also one undivided fifth part of a certain lot of land situate in said Andover on the northerly side of the road leading from the house formerly of Ebenezer Jenkins to the house formerly of George Pearson, bounded beginning on the northerly side of said road at land now or once of Josiah F. Abbott, thence running northerly and easterly by said Abbott land and the wall about forty-two rods to land now or once of heirs of David Gray, thence northerly and easterly by said Gray land and the wall about thirty-four rods to a corner in the wall, thence northerly by the wall about twelve rods, thence westerly by said Gray land and land formerly of Sam'l Gunnerson and the wall about fifty-seven rods to land formerly of heirs of Ebenezer Jones, thence southerly and westerly by said Jones land and land formerly of said Jenkins about fifty-nine rods to said road, thence easterly by said road about seven rods and twenty-one links to the point of beginning. Containing about nine acres.

9. Also an undivided fifth part of another lot of land in said Andover situate on the northerly side of the road leading from the house formerly of Ebenezer Jenkins to the house formerly of Wm. Woodbridge, bounded beginning on said road at land formerly of Dudley Woodbridge, thence running southeasterly by said road to land formerly of Josiah F. Abbott, thence northeasterly and northwesterly by said Abbott land to land formerly of said Dudley Woodbridge, thence by said Woodbridge land westerly and southwesterly to the point of beginning on said road. Containing about three acres.

10. Also an undivided fifth part of a lot of meadow land in said Andover bounded beginning at the southwesterly corner thereof by land formerly of Samuel Cummings and thence running westerly about thirteen rods to land formerly of Samuel Cogswell and butting southerly on the road leading from Andover to Salem, thence northerly as the fence now stands about forty rods, thence easterly about thirteen rods, thence northerly to the point of beginning. Containing three and one-fourth acres, more or less.

11. Also an undivided fifth part of a lot of land with buildings thereon on the road leading from Prospect Hill to the house of Wm. Stiles, containing one acre, more or less, and bounded by said road and by lands formerly of Caleb and Orlando Abbott.

The first above described parcel was owned by said deceased in common with Perley F. Woodbridge, and the undivided half interest of the deceased therein will be sold separately.

The other parcels above described were all the real estate of the late Sam'l F. Woodbridge and were owned in common by the deceased and four other heirs of the said Samuel F. Woodbridge, and the several undivided fifth parts thereof which were owned by the said Herbert A. Woodbridge will be sold together.

Ten per centum of the purchase money must be paid at the time of sale and the balance on delivery of the deeds in or within ten days thereafter.

neatly bound, and a year's subscription to a large 16-page illustrated monthly magazine for only 30 cents. This is a most liberal offer, as HOUSEHOLD TOPICS, the magazine referred to, is a high-class paper, replete with stories of love, adventure, travel, and short, interesting and instructive sketches of fact and fancy; and in the list of 35 novels are such treasures as "A Brave Coward," by Robert Louis Stevenson; "A Blacksmith's Daughter," by Etta W. Pierce; "Ninette," a most pleasing story by M. T. Caldor; "A Gilded Sin," and "Between Two Sins," by the author of "Dora Thorne;" "The Truth of It," by the popular writer, Hugh Conway; and "The Moorehouse Tragedy," rather sensational, by Mrs. Jane C. Austin; "A Heroine," a delightful story by Mrs. Rebecca H. Davis; "Wall Flowers," by the popular Marion Harland, and the great story, "Guilty or Not Guilty," by Amanda M. Douglass. Space forbids mentioning the other novels; but they are all the same high grade, popular, bright, romantic, spicy, interesting stories.

The 35 novels and the current issue of HOUSEHOLD TOPICS will be sent you the day your order is received. This will supply you with a season's reading for a mere song, and will be appreciated by all in the household. Send at once 30 cents to HOUSEHOLD TOPICS PUB. CO., P. O. Box 1159, New York City, N. FRUIT AND FLOWERS

THE ROSE GARDEN.

Simple Cultural Hints—Classes of Roses Most Useful For General Propagation.

A light, airy position should be selected, but where cold north winds will be somewhat broken. Roses will not succeed if planted in the shade of trees or buildings; neither do they want to be planted in an inclosure where the sun beats upon them and all air is shut off from reaching them. The soil should be a good friable loam, moderately moist [illegible]. Soil should be thoroughly prepared and a liberal quantity of ground bone and well rotted sheep manure or cow manure added. Whatever the form of your beds, let them be rather narrow for convenience in cutting the flowers and working about them.

Of the different classes of roses most useful for general culture the Hybrid Remontants, or Hybrid Perpetuals, as they are called, stand first, after which come the Prairie roses, Hybrid Teas, Moss and Polyantha roses, Teas, Bourbons, Austrians and Hybrid China roses. In the latitude of New York all the above named classes except the Prairie roses will be benefited by some protection during the winter, and in the case of the Teas, Hybrid Teas and Bourbons it is absolutely necessary to cover them.

Rose plants should be given a dressing of good old manure annually, either in the spring or fall. If in the spring, it should be given before the beds are forked over, as it may then be worked into the soil. Water should be given during the summer if the weather is dry. As regards pruning, no rule can be laid down more than to say that weak shoots and weak growing plants should be closely pruned, while the strong growing ones must not be pruned closely, says American Gardening, authority for the foregoing.

Fine Foliage Plant.

Among all the ornamental foliage plants that come to perfection the first season from being sown the novelty Nicotiana colossea ranks foremost.

This is an annual, attaining a height of five to six feet in the open ground.

NICOTIANA COLOSSEA.

The leaves—about 3 feet in length by 18 to 20 inches in breadth—are erect at first, gracefully bending downward successively. When young, they are downy and of a reddish tint, changing to a glossy dark green later on, this lovely green contrasting beautifully with the reddish brown ribs. The plants being of branching habit and of robust growth, and the leaves being very tough, are not damaged by wind or rain. It is well adapted for subtropical gardening, either as single specimens or for groups with other ornamental leaved plants.

A Serious Insect Enemy.

This insect, also known as the San Jose scale, which is the most serious insect enemy the growers of fruits in California have to contend against, first made its appearance in the eastern states last year. The United States department of agriculture urges upon fruitgrowers the importance of making examinations of their orchards to ascertain whether this insect has made its appearance. The insect is a small, flat, round scale, a little lighter in color than the bark of the tree, and will be found most abundantly upon the younger limbs and twigs. There is in the middle of each scale a small, elevated, shiny, blackish, rounded point. Sometimes the center of the scale appears yellowish. The wood underneath the scale is apt to be discolored and somewhat purplish.

When the insect is abundant, the bark is hidden by a layer of these scales, which to the naked eye give the appearance of a slight discoloration or a roughening of the bark. Fruitgrowers finding this scale should at once notify the department and send specimens. An emergency bulletin which will give a full account of the insect, together with the best means to be used against it, will be sent to all applicants as soon as published.

Horticultural News and Notes.

Mr. H. E. Van Deman, formerly pomologist in the United States department of agriculture, is contemplating a work similar to that of the late Charles Downing on "Fruits and Fruit Trees of America."

The belief is growing that Russian apples are going to make a great apple growing region of a vast extent of country in which apple culture on this continent has heretofore been impossible.

After years of patience and hard labor Samuel Miller of Missouri has succeeded in producing a seedless persimmon.

The commercial value of a nut tree on the farm is not apparently appreciated by many farmers.

To get fruit buds annually set a few trees in the nursery row, keep them there permanently and take off the buds as needed. In this way varieties true to name can be kept constantly on the farm or in the nursery. This is one of the best plans for getting varieties true to name.

THE NORWEGIAN BILL

A Plain Account of Its History and Provisions.

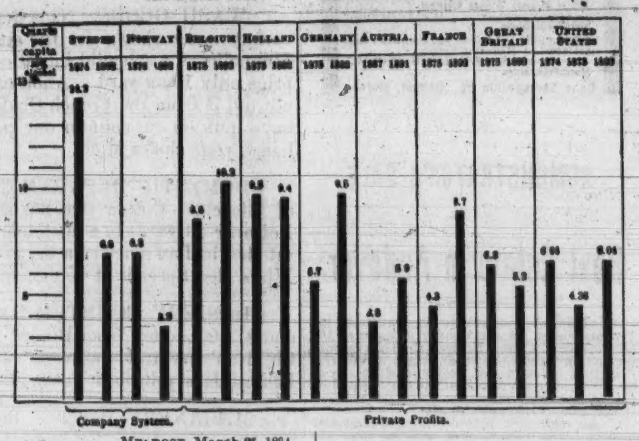

Letters From Mrs. Livermore and Ex-Governor Long—Its Triumphs Abroad—How It Is to Be Adapted to Massachusetts—Fishing With Two Hooks.

Great interest is being aroused in the Norwegian bill. Among the eminent persons favoring it are: Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Ex-Governor Long, ex-Governor Brackett, Bishop Lawrence, the Rev. Drs. Edward Everett Hale, Philip S. Moxom, A. E. Dunning, S. J. Barrows, George A. Gordon, Leighton Parks and E. L. Rexford, Professor Francis G. Peabody, Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer, Judge John Lowell, Hon. Edward Atkinson, Hon. George S. Hale, Samuel B. Capen, Esq., Dr. Henry P. Bowditch, Robert Treat Paine, General Francis A. Walker, Richard H. Dana and many others.

Mrs. Livermore on the Bill.

Mrs. Livermore, the veteran and eloquent anti-slavery and temperance advocate, has written the following letter regarding it:

CONSUMPTION OF DISTILLED SPIRITS.

MELROSE, March 25, 1894.

J. G. Thorp, Jr.:

MY DEAR SIR—I cannot attend the hearing on the Norwegian bill, Monday, as I must leave for New York early in the day.

I am in favor of the bill.

First, last and always, I am a prohibitionist; and I favor the Norwegian bill, because, if righteously administered, its tendency will be toward prohibition. If our good temperance people would carefully study the bill, I think their objections to it, would disappear. For, if the bill is carried, we shall continue to have "local option" in Massachusetts, and the same proportion of towns and cities voting no license that we now have.

But in the towns and cities that vote for license the Norwegian system offers a chance for great improvement. It can only be adopted in those places by a majority vote. But, then, it eliminates the element of personal profit from the sale of liquor, which now keeps it alive, and makes it flourishing.

It extinguishes the saloon, as it now exists, a noxious agent in politics, the headquarters of a most dangerous class, and a perpetual menace to the community. And it transfers the control of liquor selling from the very worst elements of society to the hands of men who abominate the whole business, and only consent to take charge of it that they may minimize its evils and ultimately extinguish them. I don't wonder that the liquor-selling fraternity fight the bill. But I do wonder that our honest, straightforward temperance people cannot see the power it gives them.

During the anti-slavery campaign we anathematized the hideous business of buying and selling human beings. We riddled it with the arrows of our satire and poured into it the hot shot of our remorseless moral logic; and yet we all rejoiced when his English friends bought Frederick Douglass, so that he could return to America and bombard the colossal national sin of slavery with his fervid eloquence.

Again and again and again we contributed to buy slaves who had escaped from the south when we could not run them into Canada, notwithstanding some of our noblest abolitionists remonstrated against the practice, as our good temperance people now remonstrate against the Norwegian bill. Now that the smoke and noise of the conflict have subsided, we see that we were right.

I hope that the bill may pass. It is one means leading to the end—prohibition. It will kill our present horrible saloon system, and give us cleaner and purer municipal politics; for a better set of men will be drawn into municipal affairs. Yours truly,

MARY A. LIVERMORE.

Ex-Governor Long's Letter.

BOSTON, April 11, 1894.

Dear Mr. Thorp:

I have not given the Norwegian bill sufficient study, nor do I comprehend its effect enough to give an opinion as to its merits by which I should wish to be bound. But I am much impressed by the statement which Mrs. Livermore makes. Under our present law we have prohibition in all towns that vote for it; and, the Norwegian bill not applying to them, they would not be affected by it. I understand that it will apply to those only which have twice in succession voted for license. In those, therefore, it would be simply a question between the present system of license (with the profit going to the professional liquor seller who has every stimulus to enlarge that profit) and the Norwegian system, which more sharply restrains and regulates the traffic and gives the profit to responsible hands, with no inducement to enlarge it.

Even in our license towns it could not be adopted except by majority vote. It would seem therefore, that, first, there is very little chance, even if the bill is enacted, of its becoming operative at present in more than two or three municipalities; the rest will wait the result in them; and, second, that in those two or three it cannot be worse, but it is likely to be better in its effects than the license system which it will displace. Under these circumstance I am inclined to think that it would be wise to try the experiment, if only as an experiment, in those two or three towns that would give it a chance. Truly yours,

JOHN D. LONG.

The System In Scandinavia.

In Sweden and Norway the system has been at work for some 20 years. It is there applied only to distilled drinks. In each of those countries it has cut down the amount consumed more than one-half. Finland is now trying it with like good effects. On the other hand, in Denmark, with a similar population, in Germany, and in almost every other nation, including our own, the consumption is going up instead of down.

These facts have led to a thorough investigation of the subject by a commission appointed by the governor a year ago, and consisting of ex-Judge Lowell of the United States circuit court, Dr. Bowditch, dean of the Harvard medical school, and John Graham Brooks, the well known sociologist. This commission has prepared an elaborate report, and recommends the present bill, to which it is probable that some amendments will be made, still further perfecting it.

The most striking feature of the commissioners' report has to do with the greatly decreased consumption of spirits in Scandinavia in distinction from other countries. This matter is illustrated in the cut accompanying this article, which is self-explanatory.

What the Bill Provides.

The bill, which is permissive only, as it will be amended in the house, can apply alone to places which, for two successive years, have voted "yes" on the license question. In such places, if (1) it is petitioned for by enough legal voters, and (2) bonds are given to organize a suitable company, then, (3) this question must go on the Australian ballot:

"If licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors are granted in this city (or town), shall they be granted under the Norwegian system?"

On this question the community will vote "Yes" and "No."

The bill provides for regulating the companies to receive the licenses, and requires a local board, consisting of the chief public officers of a place, to decide which of the applying companies shall receive the licenses. By this means it would be the fault of the place if good men did not get the privilege rather than bad men. Again, if the spirit of the law is not complied with, the proper officer may wind up the company.

Every safeguard being thus provided, what are the peculiarities of the system?

First—The sellers must be on salary, with no inducement to increase sales.

Second—Except a small per cent on investment—not on sales—and the running expenses, all the proceeds must be applied to objects of public utility, such as reading rooms, industrial education, etc. Thus the incentive to push the business for gain is taken away.

Third—The persons making up the company are philanthropists, going into it with the intent, where liquor must be sold, to reduce the sales to the lowest possible amount. Thus the places will be unattractive, the hours of sale short and very strict rules about whom to sell to, how much, etc., will be made and rigidly enforced.

The bill applies to all alcoholics, instead of to spirits alone, as in Scandinavia. It is a new departure in temperance reform on two lines: (1) No-license where ever possible. (2) The best system of licenses, where licenses must be granted, rather than the worst. And by "best" is meant that which will most discourage and limit drinking. It will also take the liquor traffic out of politics, where it is at present the source of untold evils.

The advocates of the bill include some of the hardest workers for prohibition in the state. They are dead in earnest. They say that they are tired of fishing with only one kind of hook, and are now going to try two—a Norwegian fly, for fish which will not take the old-fashioned angleworm.

Valuable Presents Free.

We wish to introduce our System Pills into every home. We know that we manufacture the very best remedy on earth for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Kidney Troubles, Torpid Liver, etc; and when you have tried these pills you will gladly recommend them to others, or take an agency, and in this way we shall have a large, well-paying demand created.

As a special inducement for every reader of this paper to try these pills and take an agency at once, we will give to each person who sends twenty-five cents in cash, or thirty cents in stamps, for a box of System Pills, one of the following presents: A Handsome Gold Watch, a good Silver Watch, a Valuable Town Lot, a Genuine Diamond Ring, a Casket of Silverware, or a genuine $5.00 Gold Piece. Every purchaser gets one of the above presents. There are no exceptions. Shaw Remedy Co., Rutherford, N.J.

There are Sarsaparillas and Sarsaparillas; but if you are not careful in your purchase, the disease you wise to cure will only be intensified Be sure you get Ayer's Sarsaparilla and no other. It is compounded from the Honduras root and other highly concentrated alternatives.

The Atlantic.

There are several contributions to the May Atlantic worthy of more than common note. One of them, "From Blomidon to Smoky," is the first of a series of four articles by the late Frank Bolles. The papers represent his last studies of nature, and were his last literary work. They were all the outcome of a summer excursion through Nova Scotia in 1893. The memory of Francis Parkman is honored by articles from his fellow-historians, Justin Winsor and John Fiske. Professor T. C. Mendenhall, in his article, "The Henry," on the newly chosen term of electrical measurement, gives the American scientist, Joseph Henry, his rank with the great electricians of the world. Gilbert Parker, the young Anglo-Canadian, whose stories are coming more and more into notice, contributes a tragic tale of the Hudson Bay Company, "Three Commandments in the Vulgar Tongue." There are many other attractive papers of literature, art and travel. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

A Gentleman

Who formerly resided in Connecticut, but who now resides in Honolulu, writes: "For 20 years past, my wife and I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor, and we attribute to it the dark hair which she and I now have, while hundreds of our acquaintances, ten or a dozen years younger than we, are either gray-headed, white, or bald. When asked how our hair has retained its color and fullness, we reply, 'By the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor—nothing else.'"

"In 1868, my affianced was nearly bald. [illegible] the hair kept falling out every day. I induced her to use Ayer's Hair Vigor, and very soon, it not only checked any further loss of hair, but produced an entirely new growth, which has remained luxuriant and glossy to this day. I can recommend this preparation to all in need of a genuine hair-restorer. It is all that it is claimed to be."—Antonio Alarrun, Bastrop, Tex.

POLICE STEPPED IN

And Coxey's Promised Oration Failed to Be Delivered.

Parade Came Off According to Program. Wound Up With a Few Clubbed Heads and Arrest of Two Leaders.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The first of May has come and gone, and Coxey has led his army into Washington and made his attempt to speak from the Capitol steps. The attempt, it is needless to say, met with repulse. As a result of their efforts, one of the leaders now languishes in durance vile. Coxey himself was more fortunate, and, barring a possible disappointment, is as well as ever.

The army is now encamped within the city and its members are wondering what is to come next. As an excitement producer and crowd drawer the pageant was a pronounced success. But in no other way.

The performance which was enacted within the shadow of the Capitol is without a counterpart in the memory of Washingtonians. Over the broad, smooth plaza of the several acres of the east front of the Capitol was packed a crowd of men and women numbering at least 10,000. All conditions of people were there, the lower elements in largest proportion.

The Capitol steps and porticos were packed with people of both sexes, well dressed, and most of the members of congress in the throng.

More than 200 police surrounded the Capitol offices. Detectives were sprinkled through the crowd, for the concentration of lawless characters gave just grounds for apprehensions of trouble, apart from the presence of the Coxeyites.

A Curious Aggregation.

It was shortly after 1 o'clock when the army halted in the public street south of the Capitol grounds. Its five-mile march down from Brightwood, through the principal streets of the city, had been witnessed by thousands, attracted more from curiosity than by any interest in the movement.

Such a fantastic aggregation never paraded itself in seriousness before the public. There were 500 men in line; Mrs. Annie L. Diggs, the Populistic agitator of Kansas, in a barouche; Coxey's 17-year-old daughter in white, on a horse, representing the goddess of peace; Carl Browne, on a gray Percheron stallion; General Jacob Sleicher Coxey, his wife, the infant Legal Tender Coxey, together in another carriage; Virginia L. A. Vallette, said to be an actress, on horseback, draped in an American flag, as the Philadelphia commune's goddess of peace; the unemployed carried white flags of peace on staves, and the nondescript banners setting the doctrines of reincarnation, good roads and enmity to plutocrats, were sprinkled through the caravan.

Police Mandate Disobeyed.

Marshal Browne halted the procession there in the street, walked back to Coxey's carriage, the general kissed his wife, and then the two moving spirits of the affair, Browne swinging aloft a small banner, forced their way over the plaza to the Capitol steps, their men, acting under orders, standing in their tracks. After Coxey and Browne pressed a yelling crowd of men.

Trampling and tearing its way through the costly shrubbery the mob went, while a squad of mounted police which had headed the parade, dazed a moment by the unexpected move, dashed recklessly into their midst. Coxey was confronted by the police as he took off his hat to speak on the steps, and his demand for his constitutional rights, as he called it, being refused, thrust upon them a printed protest which proved to be a well-worded epitome of populistic doctrines.

Meanwhile Carl Browne was being literally dragged by the collar of his coat through the crowd toward the nearest station, after he had made a fight to retain his banner. The mild-mannered Coxey, without violence, was thrust back across several hundred feet of humanity to his carriage. Mounted police were forcing their horses among the people, several of them cracking their clubs over the heads of the nearest persons; women were shrieking with terror, men yelling fiercely; some were being knocked down and trampled upon.

Without a Leader.

For five minutes there was riot in that section of the mob in front of the east steps which occupied about an acre of the asphalt. Then the two agitating spirits having been removed, half a dozen particularly belligerent men having been taken in by the police, the disturbance was quelled, without serious injury to a single person.

Another riot was started almost immediately near Coxey's carriage in the street, whither the crowds pressed as soon as the leader had rejoined his lines, and clubs were freely used. Cable cars clanging through the mob increased the danger, but here also none but minor injuries were inflicted.

Somehow the army was started off toward its new camp between double lines of police, followed by a mob of thousands of negroes and white men cheering like demons. Within an hour the Capitol grounds had almost regained their normal quiet, with only a few hundred people strolling around and nothing but trampled shrubbery and grass ground under thousands of feet left as evidences of the riot.

Over in the station house, six squares from the Capitol, in the southwestern section of the city, Carl Browne was looking through the gratings of his cell, his pockets having been searched, and his description taken down as is done with ordinary offenders. The result of the search was $7.50 in money, a small dismantled revolver and a consignment of commonweal literature.

Browne's Possessions.

General Coxey accepted the situation quietly. His army was put to work clearing up the new camping ground for occupancy, while Coxey drove over to the office of the district commissioners with an eye to business. He made application for the necessary license to charge an admission fee to his camp. By paying $5 Coxey secured a license for one day only.

In the afternoon Browne's bail was fixed at $500. Mrs. Edith Briggs and Mrs. Anna Hahan undertook the bond and the chief marshal was set free. Mrs. Briggs conveyed him in her carriage to her home, where he took dinner, and then he returned to the army in its new camp near the river. Christopher Columbus Jones was left to languish in the station house.

A Book's Quaint Title.

A year or two ago there first appeared in Germany a little book entitled "Darf die Frau Denken?" ("Ought Woman Be Allowed to Think?"). It went through a number of editions in a short time, a rare thing to happen in the fatherland, at least in this department of literature. Though small and without any new ideas or issues, it seemed to have had a decided effect in winning favor for the woman rights movement, at present occupying the best minds of a nation as conservative as the German. The writer, a lady, attempts to show that woman is not created for man, but for her calling, and to work out her own destiny on equal terms with man. Hence all educational apparatus and institutions ought to be opened to her.—Baltimore Sun.

The Statue of the Angel Moroni.

A statue of the angel Moroni surmounts the capstone of the tower of the great Mormon temple at Salt Lake City. The figure is of gigantic proportions, being 12 feet 5½ inches in height. It reminds one of a picture of Gabriel blowing the trumpet on the last day and is supposed to represent the Mormon angel bringing the gospel to the children of men. The incandescent lamp above the angel's head is 223 feet from the pavement below.—St. Louis Republic.

An Anthem.

This definition of an anthem is accredited to a British workman. Undertaking to explain the meaning of the word to an inquiring friend, he began, "Well, if I said 'Bring me a pickax,' that would not be an anthem, but if I said 'Bring—bring—bring—bring me the pick—pick—pickax—bring me the pick—pickax' that would be an anthem."—New York Times.

HEALTH GUARANTEED.

The Strongest Guarantee on Earth Is that Given With

Allen's Sarsaparilla!

READ IT AND FURTHER PROOF OF THE EFFICACY OF THIS REMEDY.

A Guarantee that Guarantees!!

A Remedy that Cures!!!

Here's Proof that it Cures Blood Trouble and Constipation.

We frequently hear people say that a guarantee don't amount to anything. However that may be with other preparations, it amounts to just this with Allen's Sarsaparilla, every bottle has a guarantee label near the bottom. If no benefit is derived by the time it is taken down to this label, it can be returned to us, according to directions on the label and we will refund the full price; provided it is taken regularly and according to directions, and for the diseases for which we recommend it, and provided it is not purchased at a discount from the retail price. No remedy without wonderful properties, and sold at so low a price, could be guaranteed under these terms. We are convinced by our experience and by the strong testimonials that are constantly pouring in, that we are perfectly safe in guaranteeing Allen's Sarsaparilla.

F. E. LANDERS, of Benton Falls, Me., writes:—I had a severe kidney trouble, and could not straighten up or walk. I was advised to take Sarsaparilla. I took two well-known kinds but got no benefit and was at last induced to try Allen's. I took two bottles and am today a well man. I am now able to do a hard day's work in the pulp mill every day, and have no signs of a return of my old trouble, nor do I expect to. I would advise anybody troubled with kidney disease to give Allen's Sarsaparilla a good trial. It saved my life.

MISS JOSIE WILSON of South Walpole, Mass., writes:—I have been troubled for a number of years with a terrible disease called eczema. My face was a terrible sight, all red blotches. I tried everything and was on the point of giving up in despair, when someone recommended Allen's Sarsaparilla, and I have only used one bottle and my face is almost well, and there are no pimples on it at all now. I cannot speak too highly of it, and have recommended it to a great many of my friends who now have great faith in it. I shall get some more and keep on using it as I know it is doing me good.

F. E. GLEASON of Lexington, Mass., writes:—I had an internal abcess and was confined to my bed five weeks; was completely prostrated and worn out with pain. I commenced taking your Sarsaparilla and found my strength coming back, and after taking two bottles consider myself well.

I take pleasure in recommending your Sarsaparilla to all my friends and to the public. My wife has also taken it for consumption, and considers it the best of any Sarsaparilla.

NORTH ANDOVER.

Mrs. Harriet Jones of Troy, N. Y., returned this morning after a pleasant visit at the home of Mr. J. H. Nason.

As a result of the entertainment in Stevens Hall Friday evening, the sum of $27 was realized.

Mr. Fred P. Hannaford has been drawn as juror to serve during the May term of the Superior Criminal Court at Newburyport.

Mrs. James Montgomery fell down stairs leading from a shed Tuesday, cutting her head and otherwise bruising herself. Surgical treatment was rendered.

Wynona Lodge has elected the following officers: C. T., James, Craig. V. T., Marion Paul; secretary, Charles Hinxman; financial secretary, Mrs. Groesbeck; treasurer, John W. Richardson, jr.; chaplain, A. M. Markey; superintendent J. T., Annie Sutcliffe; marshal, H. E. Barker; guard, William Drew; sentinel, William Schofield. A public entertainment is contemplated at an early date.

At the entertainment given by St. Paul's choir in Odd Fellows' Hall Monday evening, the out-of-town talent mentioned in our columns last week appeared, and by their vocal and instrumental selections gave much satisfaction. Besides those features mentioned previously, there was also a duet by Mr. Jonas Eastwood and Miss Ellen Somerville and a solo by Miss Esther Somerville, both of which were pleasingly rendered, and a "Good Night" song by the choir.

The committee for the parish supper, to be held in the Congregational Church on the 15th inst., have arranged to have Rev. Smith Baker of Boston give an address, and it is expected that a quartette from the Andover Seminary will furnish music. A turkey supper will be served and all persons over sixteen years of age who consider their church home at this place will receive an invitation; if not, it will be an unintentional over-sight. A small list of invited guests has been prepared.

Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Frisbee pleasantly received about thirty of their friends Saturday evening at the residence of Mrs. Hannah D. Godfrey, Candia Village. The parlor was very tastefully decorated with potted plants and flowers, and a cordial welcome was extended each guest.

A programme of vocal and instrumental music, with remarks by Rev. E. H. Prescott, added pleasure to the occasion. A fine collation was served, after which the attention of Mr. and Mrs. Frisbee was attracted by an array of testimonials which expressed the well wishes and regard of their friends, which included devices in silver and glass, useful in the service of a home. A hearty response was made by Mr. Frisbee, in acknowledging the thoughtfulness of the friends, after which social converse was resumed by the company.

A Birthday Observance.

To comparatively few persons is the privilege accorded to glance through the vista of 80 years with the faculties undimmed, but rendered rather the more charming by the tempering and mellowing of age. Twelve years ago Mrs. Ruby F. Stoodley and her husband had the rare pleasure of celebrating their golden wedding. Cloudy days have flitted across life's pathway since then, but surviving them all last Wednesday came with its sunshine and lightly rested upon the brow of Mrs. Stoodley the crown of fourscore years, a crown which she wore with graceful comeliness.

About fifty friends, including the out-of-town relatives, bearing cheerful words, well-wishes, and congratulatory messages called to honor one so far advanced along the highway of life. The guests were pleasantly received and presented by her daughter, Miss Annie M. Stoodley, assisted by two favorite grand-daughters, Miss Ruby F. Stoodley and Miss Bessie E. Stoodley of Somerville. Among the elderly people present who were especial friends of her childhood were Mr. Warren Tyler of Salem, Mr. Peter Holt, Mr. Charles A. Butterfield, Mrs. Abigail Blunt, Mrs. Mary Hyde, Mrs. Lucy Prescott, Mrs. S. P. Grozelier, whose ages aggregated nearly 500 years. Among other relatives and friends present were: Mr. Clifford Stoodley, South Boston, the only son; Mr. Benj. H. Stoodley and wife, Boston; Master Harry M. Stoodley, Somerville; Mrs. Kitty Mills, Brookline; Mrs. Martha Mills, Boston; Mr. Coburn Tyler and Miss Louise Tyler, Salem; Mrs. John Wilkinson, Misses Lizzie and Mary Wilkinson, Lawrence; Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Berry of Andover.

The rich wedding cake and wine served the visitors was the fruit of the hostess's hand. Very interesting and refreshing letters were received from Mrs. Harriet Stoodley, Malden; Major N. D. Stoodley, Reading; Miss Gertrude Carr, Boston; Mrs. Charles R. Bliss, Chicago; George H. Gilbert, Sunnyside, Winchester. Mrs. Stoodley also received many valuable tokens of affection, esteem and regard, including a crisp $10 note, a dress pattern, and 80 elegant carnations from George H. Gilbert, Esq., Winchester; sums of money, Mr. Joseph Carr, Charlestown, Mr. S. Henry Furber and Mrs. Sarah Foster of town; a silver snuff-box, gold-lined, and concealed within were two $5 gold pieces, Mrs. S. A. Cobb, Boston; birthday cake, Miss Sarah Kit-Kittredge. She was also the recipient of many other mementoes and floral gifts. The guests were received between the hours of 2 and 8 o'clock P.M.

Mrs. Stoodley was born on the site of the residence of Mr. Peter Holt and has, with the exception of a year or two, been a life long resident, and at her present age is remarkably active and does quite fine needlework. May the Grandma's life be lengthened by many happy years.

How Predictions Were Fulfilled.

A MAJORITY GRANT LICENSES.

A meeting presumably to attend to work of the board of Assessors was held in the Selectmen's parish office, Monday evening. After a little it merged into a Selectmen's meeting. Clerk Warren announced that the chairman had received a communication from the Selectmen of Andover asking the Board to dine with them at the Almshouse, May 7. The invitation was accepted and the clerk requested to acknowledge the same. An invitation for the Board to attend the Memorial Day observance was also accepted and the clerk requested to acquaint the Memorial Committee of the action taken, by a suitable reply.

Without other warning the clerk, Mr. Warren, stated that it was the 30th of April and that the licenses of the druggists expired that night, and in regard to the petitions for licenses, he moved that a license be granted to Charles S. Stearns. The junior member of the Board stated:

"That he had been notified that the meeting had been convened as a meeting of Assessors and was not aware that the subject of licenses was to be discussed that evening. The clerk replied that certain business relating to the Board of Selectmen had already been transacted. It was agreed by the junior that certain trivial matters had been, but that the subject of granting licenses was a very important one, that one of the applicants had been represented by an attorney giving the law on one side, and as a petition had been presented remonstrating against the issuing of druggists' licenses as an act of justice the petitioners ought at least to be given an opportunity to be represented by counsel, if they so desired, to give the law in their behalf.

This review was not in accord with that of the other members of the Board and the junior member said that if it was determined that final action was to be taken upon the subject of licenses, then, or whenever the subject should come up for final action, he desired the attention of the Board, although at the time he was not fully prepared to argue on the subject."

Following is a copy of the communication received from the applicant's attorney:

"NORTH ANDOVER, MASS.,
APRIL 21, 1894.

Frank A. Warren, Esq., Clerk of the Board of Selectmen, North Andover:

DEAR SIR:—I have been requested by Mr. Geo. H. Perkins whose petition for a sixth class license for sale of intoxicating liquors is pending before your Honorable Board, to call your attention to the Statute law concerning the same, and as it is impossible for me to be present at your meeting on Monday, I respectfully submit the following:

First: There seems to be prevalent with certain people the idea that when a town votes 'No' on the license question, that the matter of granting a license of the sixth class to retail druggists or apothecaries, rests wholly with the Board of Selectmen, and I understand that in accordance with that idea, a petition has been presented to your Honorable Board remonstrating against the granting of any license of the sixth class for the coming year. Concerning this I would respectfully call your Honorable Board's attention to Chap. 431 Sec. 1 of the Acts and Resolves of the year 1887, where the law is laid down that one or more licenses of the sixth class shall be granted by the Selectmen in a town, there is no ambiguity; the law is that one or more shall be granted, and is a compulsory law for the granting of at least one druggist license of the sixth class, the only provision is that the person or persons to whom such a license is issued, shall be a fit person to receive the same.

Second: Under Sec. 2 Chap. 100 of the Public Statutes it is provided that 'Druggists and apothecaries may sell pure alcohol for medicinal or chemical purposes' so that whether your Honorable Board deem it wise to refuse a license or not, yet pure alcohol could be sold by the druggists and apothecaries in this town for the purposes above mentioned.

I respectfully submit to your Honorable Board, without going into the matter at any greater length, that you are duty bound to grant at least one license of the sixth class in this town, provided you are satisfied that the applicant is a fit person to receive the same and that if you refuse to grant a license as aforesaid it must be wholly upon the ground that the applicants are unworthy and unfit to receive one. It would seem from a careful investigation of the law that the Legislature has recognized the public necessity and need of at least one license of the sixth class in every community to meet the needs of medicinal, mechanical and chemical purposes, and that not only does the law require that the granting board see to it that the holder or holders of such licenses are fit and proper persons, but the duty is also imposed upon such boards, that after once granting the same, to see that the provisions of such a license are not abused. I submit that my client is a fit and proper person to receive this license; if you grant that, then it is your duty to grant him a license under the law, it will then be his duty as well as yours to see that the conditions and provisions are complied with.

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) GEORGE L. WEIL,
Atty. for George H. Perkins."

In referring to the latter and in remonstrating against the issuing of the desired licenses, the following was stated to the Board by the junior member:

Attorney Weil, counsel for George H. Perkins.

First "In directing attention to Chap. 431, Sec. 1, A. and R. of 1887 cites the law as being laid down that one or more licenses of the sixth class shall be granted by the Selectmen in a town; there is no ambiguity—the law is, that one or more shall be granted, and is a compulsory law for the granting of at least one druggist's license of the sixth class. The only provision is that the person or persons to whom such a license is issued shall be a fit person to receive the same.

To begin with, the law is a conditional or a provisional one, and there is no ambiguity about the provision either, which is made in the very same breath as the law which preceded it, and is equally as good law and just as compulsory. The provision is a most important one."

Second. Under Sec. 2, Chap. 2, he further says, that "Druggists and apothecaries may sell pure alcohol for medicinal or chemical purposes," and whether the Board deem it wise to refuse a license or not, yet, pure alcohol can be sold for the purposes mentioned. Now I do not think that the present Board of Selectmen desires or attempts to say that any man, or even one of our druggists, shall not do what the law gives him a right to do. If the law allows him certain privileges and rights without a license, then surely no license is needed for him to exercise those privileges, and to ask for or desire such a license is useless.

But I differ with the applicant's attorney in his interpretation of this law, in that if pure alcohol is an intoxicating liquor, then Sec. 2 of Chap. 100, P. S., which he cites as allowing pure alcohol to be sold for certain purposes, with or without a license, conflicts or is inconsistent with Chap. 431 of the A. and R. of 1887 which he as already alluded to, and if so is repealed and rendered inoperative by a subsequent law, (Sec. 6, Chap. 431, 1887,) and should a druggisst sell pure alcohol contrary to the prescribed statutes (Chap. 431) being unlicensed, he would most certainly be answerable to the court and indictable for each such sale for maintaining a common nuisance."

In closing his plea for his client, the attorney mentions the fact that [illegible] and need of at least one license of the sixth class in every community to meet the needs of medicinal, mechanical and chemical purposes, etc.

"Yes, gentlemen, our Legislature has recognized this fact, and in its wisdom has established certain provisions to guard, protect and secure the welfare of the home and community from rampant evil, and for the trespass against any of these provisions it has also provided severe and just penalties which these applicants evidently know, only too well.

We must remember that the attorney argues only in the interest of his client, in whose place, he for the time being stands, and we must also not lose sight of the fact that this same attorney has also occupied the position of Selectmen, and were he recalled to the office now and in possession of the facts and circumstances already known to us, he could hardly conscientiously advance a reason why licenses should be granted, but did he wish, gentlemen, from his experience as a past officer he could undoubtedly present many strong arguments against the granting of these licenses. He well mentions the fact of its being the duty of the Board, if these licenses are granted, to see to it that the conditions are complied with.

You and I know, gentlemen, know only too well, that the provisions under which the last licenses were granted have been flagrantly violated, from the meager records shown us, and the unlawful method of keeping the same, despite the visits made and warnings heretofore given these druggists by officers and others.

In the entire view presented by the attorney there is but one question for the Board to determine or in regard to both petitions; viz., are the applicants fit persons to receive the licenses asked for? We are simply to determine upon their fitness, and by fitness we are to mean have these druggists fulfilled all the requirements and conditions imposed upon them and which they agreed to fulfill and which they have given bonds to fulfill, by Chap. 431 of the A. and R. of 1887 and subsequent laws relating thereto?

Even if by any elasticity of conscience it can be said that they have, we are not bound to grant the licenses, for the statutes giving the Selectmen power in the matter are very broad, allowing them to refuse to grant these licenses for reason or otherwise.

Can we as honorable, conscientious, and fair-minded men with any regard for our oath, knowing the facts and circumstances that we do, in passing upon this matter of right and wrong, or question of fitness and unfitness, say that these applicants or either of them has not violated any of the provisions or conditions of Chap. 431 of the Acts and Resolves of 1887 and Amendments thereto. If not, and there is the manhood prevalent among the Board that I think there is, or it has any regard whatever for the welfare of the home or good morals of the community, then clearly we are in duty bound to pronounce the applicants unfit persons and licenses surely ought not to be granted. It is utterly impossible to say that any of the provisions of the chapter named have not been violated.

On the other hand, if in view of the facts and circumstances known to you licenses are granted, I shall place myself on record against granting such licenses, and the public shall know my reasons for so doing. Should you be determined to issue the licenses asked for, I see no other course to pursue than for the court of justice to proceed and pass upon the existing violations a course of procedure which is open to the petitioners or others and should the matter be forced into court, severe penalties are prescribed for conviction of the violation of any provision of Chap. 431 and amendments thereto.

I think and hope in the interests of justice and the community that the Board will unanimously refuse to grant said licenses.

In the subsequent discussion nothing was revealed very favorable to the fitness of the applicants, notwithstanding which the majority of the Board concluded to grant the licenses. Messrs. Greene and and Warren voting yes, and L. E. Osgood no, and recording himself as follows:

In the matter of granting a license of the sixth class, for the sale of intoxicating liquors, to George H. Perkins and Charles H. Stearns, druggists:

Having duly and impartially considered the applications received from each, I am sufficiently convinced that said applicants are unfit persons to receive the licenses asked for, and accordingly refuse to assent to the granting of the same. The more to particularize the ground of my refusal to grant said licenses I wish to note:

First, That the greater part of the record of sales of intoxicating liquors, which record the law requires shall be kept open at all times for the inspection of certain officers, was not produced when called for, April 20, 1894, but was reported by said druggists as having been destroyed by burning.

Second, That the record of the sales of intoxicating liquors which was presented for inspection, April 20, 1894, by George H. Perkins, was incompletely, improperly and carelessly kept, and at the drug store of Charles S. Stearns a complete record of all the sales of intoxicating liquors during the past year had not been kept.

Third, That the undue freedom with which intoxicating liquors were apparently dispensed, I adjudge to be inconsistent with the meaning and intent of the statutes, relative to the sales of intoxicating liquors by druggists, and against the welfare of the town.

Arbor Day.

The first public celebration of "Tree Day" in this town for many years occurred last Saturday. Mr. D. W. Carney conducted the exercises in the Town Hall, which were remarkably good, many of those who participated in the affair having only one or two days in which to prepare. The opening prayer was by Rev. Henry Matthews. The readings and recitations were of a very high order, the selections, such as Bryant's "Thanatopsis," Alexander Smith's "Historical Trees," and others of a similar character, having been made with taste and care by our Johnson High School and Merrimack Grammar School principals.

The scholars who contributed readings [illegible] were: Annie Ellison, Kate Reagan, and Albert Currier of the Johnson High School; Annie Stevens, Grace Barker of Maple Avenue; Bertha Davis, Katie Eagan and Herbert McQuestion of the Merrimack, and a class of girls from the Bradstreet School, who reflected much credit upon themselves and their principal by their prompt and clearly given recitations about the different trees, several of the girls carrying branches of the same. The pupils of the Johnson High School sang several selections, Miss Belle Roache acting very acceptably as piano accompanist. The Mechanics' Band played some very spirited marches and other selections. Dr. Barnes made a very stirring speech, so the boys seemed to think, as during it they were given an opportunity to applaud Pres. Cleveland, Gov. Greenhalge, and to give three cheers for "Old Glory," thereby relieving their pent-up enthusiasm.

Mr. J. D. W. French was then called upon to make the closing remarks, in the course of which he said:

"That several years ago Gov. Morton of Nebraska, now Secretary of Agriculture, was the father of Arbor Day, and persuaded the people of that state to set apart one day in a year to plant trees to protect themselves from the violent winds which prevailed there, and now there were over thirty states and territories which were celebrating this day."

Mr. French also said that for eight years he had been trying to have a celebration of this kind. He asked the boys to be merciful to the trees and not injure them; to preserve and pretect, as well as plant them. The object of the promoters of this project was not to plant cheap trees, but those that would make good lumber for building such houses as we should need.

Then came the naming of the six maple trees which were planted in the school yard. Liberty, Education, Religion, President of the United States, Governor of Massachusetts and Father of Arbor Day. When he suggested President Cleveland as the name of one tree, a laughable incident occurred—loud cries of "No, no," being heard from some of our future Republican citizens, the name was changed to the President of the United States, to which the boys assented.

By a bit of clever engineering the children were sent from the hall without a rush. The first of the trees was planted next the Osgood Street fence, the others parallel with and a short distance in front of the horse sheds. A row of pine trees was also planted in the rear of the building.

In Peaceful Rest.

The body of the late Miss Lavinia Farnham was taken from the receiving tomb in Winchester Monday and brought to Ridgewood Cemetery and placed in final rest in the Gilbert lot, beside the loved ones who had journeyed on before, and in sight of the homestead associated with the pleasant memories of yore. Messrs. Henry F. Smith of Concord, J. H. D. Smith of Boston and North Andover, Col. Edward H. Gilbert, and J. H. G. Gilbert of Ware drove from Winchester accompanying the body. A brief service of prayer and committal was held by Rev. H. E. Barnes at 2.15 o'clock.

Mr. George H. Gilbert, the nephew who was unable to be present, personally entwined tender and affectionate thoughts among beautiful flowers sending clusters of exquisite tulips and a large panel of beautiful pinks and ferns in memory of "Aunt Susan" and "Aunt Lavinia," and an elegant cluster of white carnations "For Mother's grave."
